Iowa Central
Donor Recognition

President, Dr. Dan Kinney

I hope you enjoy the first issue of Triton Pride! In each issue we will not only celebrate our past, but we will envision our future.

Each fall, Iowa Central Community College welcomes thousands of new faces to campus. For many, Iowa Central offers a new, fresh start; an adventure to accomplish lifelong dreams. Students choose Iowa Central to begin or expand their journey into higher education, a journey that provides them with new opportunities for themselves and their families. This past year and current year, in addition to welcoming new students, we are also welcoming new programs and opening new or renovated spaces.

Even as Iowa Central continues to grow and excel, we face a variety of challenges that include our institution's ability to provide a quality education while remaining affordable and accessible to our students.

It is a time for the Iowa Central family of alumni, friends, faculty, staff, and students to continue building upon our momentum and fulfill our mission. The faculty, staff, and administration are focused on helping students achieve their goals. Whether a student attends Iowa Central to complete a degree, to gain credits before transferring to a four-year institution, or to attain a career certificate, helping that student achieve their goal is critical. In this issue we thank and give recognition to our many donors who continue to support our mission. I hope you will join the list of supporters.

As an Iowa Central family we continue to achieve great success and create great opportunities for the students and communities Iowa Central serves.

Thank you for your continued support of Iowa Central!

4th Annual Hall of Fame & Friends and Alumni Event

Who will be the next class to “hit the wall?” We will find out September 28th at the Fourth Alumni and Friends Banquet. The Triton Hall of Fame was established in 2010, to recognize and honor successful alumni, athletes, and a humanitarian.

Humanitarian Award – This award honors a person/persons who has provided leadership or meritorious service to Iowa Central and exemplifies the College’s commitment to excellence.

Distinguished Alumni Award – This award represents the highest honor to Iowa Central alumni as it recognizes their accomplishments/contributions to their profession and community.

Triton Athletic Award – In celebration of its rich historic past, the award honors those who have made a significant contribution to Triton athletics and their profession or community. The award is open to former athletes, coaches, administrators, and supporters.

You can check out the past inductees at www.iowacentral.edu. It is not too early to start thinking about who to nominate for the 2014 Triton Hall of Fame Class.

You can still plan on attending the alumni and Friends event September 28th. Get the “gang” together and join us on campus as we celebrate the success of Iowa Central’s rich history. (and perhaps a little remembering with retired faculty and friends). Tickets can be purchased online at the Iowa Central Book Store or through the Foundation office. Tickets are $20.00 or $35.00 per couple. Come see for yourself the changes at Iowa Central. We hope you plan to make this an annual event!

If you have not been on campus in the last five years, an exciting transformation has taken place.

Five years ago, Iowa Central began to address the need for more classroom space. Over the course of planning, other objectives such as lack of parking, traffic flow, and a more pedestrian friendly campus developed and Iowa Central created a new Master Campus plan to move the college into the next century.

Tower Drive, past the Vocational Technology Building, has been closed and the athletic practice fields have been relocated, allowing the college to create a new core campus designed for pedestrian traffic. The M Avenue Loop has been renamed Triton Circle and parking lots and the athletic fields have been established in the outer perimeter, creating a pedestrian friendly campus with more open space for students to enjoy. A 2.4 acre pond was created in the center of the campus, providing a relaxing visual for students, which also acts as a geothermal retention pond to heat and cool two new buildings.

In 2008, the construction began on a 34,632 square foot new Bio Science and Health Science center. The building houses a microbiology lab, the Hopper/Pearson Organic & General Chemistry Lab, the First American Biotech Lab, and a 256 seat auditorium which serves not only the students but hosts many community events. A for profit fuel testing laboratory occupies the southeast corner of the first floor. The second floor is occupied by the Rad Tech lab and classroom, a medical assisting lab, and the Tom and Norma Schmoker Medical Technician Lab.

The Bio Science and Health Science Center is one of the Iowa elite LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) gold certified buildings.

The 30,091 square foot, one-story Student Resource Center, (SRC) completed in 2010, utilized many sustainable technologies; including daylight harvesting, occupancy sensors and use of the geothermal pond for heating and cooling. This facility acts as a student stop for food, entertainment and academic resources, with traffic flowing through a central space of the building.

The SRC consolidated many programs (library, bookstore, Triton Zone Café, and the student activity space) under one roof which freed up space for more classrooms on campus.

The campus has 15 apartment-style residences, as well as a refurbished traditional dormitory. This year 1,100 students will live on campus making Iowa Central a true collegiate experience.

Isn't it time you stopped in for a tour of your Iowa Central? To arrange a tour call the Foundation/Alumni office to schedule one. (515-574-1145 or 515-574-1137). Many naming opportunities exist on campus.

In the next issue of Triton Pride we will highlight the New Triton Café.

JOHN LENNON & Me

Iowa Central's Theatre Department Guarantees

Heart, Laughs and Music

with their fall show—John Lennon & Me by Cherie Bennett.

by Teresa Jackson, Director of Theatre

I have selected a fall play with an iconic title for Iowa Central's fall production: John Lennon & Me, by an award-winning playwright—Cherie Bennett. John Lennon & Me is a beautiful play which I have held onto for several years, waiting for a group of students to fit into the roles as I envision them. It's such a moving show, unlike any I have directed, so I am quite excited about the process. The script calls for 7 men and 8 women but is expandable to 25 and even more. With the talent we always have at Iowa Central—of course, I plan to expand! This year, the returning and incoming talent aligns perfectly with this play. I can see many of our students in many of these roles, so auditions are always an exciting time for me. I also have so many creative ideas bouncing around my head with this script, and that's always a good indication that I've made the right choice.

The play has been described as “heart-wrenching, touching, hilarious, and a bonafide tearjerker.” Others have described it as “deeply-moving, stellar, magnificent, moving, and remarkably well-written.” Here is how the play is described in the Dramatic Publishing catalogue which publishes this play:

The winner of many national awards, this uproarious play about life, death, power and first boyfriends was adapted by the author from her popular book, Good-bye, Best Friend (Harper Paperbacks, 1993). Hollywood-wannabe Star, the ultimate Beatles fan, has her path stymied by cystic fibrosis, an inherited disease that assures an early death. She spends most of her time in the hospital, where she confronts fate with imagination by surrounding herself with MTV-inspired bodyguard Flunkies and “morphing” her dreaded therapy nurse into a pro-wrestler. Then, Star gets a new roommate, Courtney, who is Star's opposite—a pretty cheerleader and apparently not very sick. Neither girl knows much about the other's world, but eventually they come to understand each other and, ultimately, themselves. This is a powerful play about living life to the fullest and a proven hit for school, adult and TYA theatres alike.

I absolutely love good playwriting, and that describes Cherie Bennett beautifully. I love her story and how gently and creatively she tells it. What seems like a somber subject matter is actually told with joy, flair and hope. I also love a script which incorporates music—because, let's face it, music enhances everything—and allows directors a chance to choose appropriate songs to further the story line. With the play's title, of course, comes the first line of brainstorming—the iconic tunes of the Beatles! Amazingly enough, I was unaware that this year marks the 50th anniversary of that group's formation, so the choice of our Iowa Central show this year feels destined to me.

I am excited to feature not only talented, individual performers in this show, but also the source of my greatest strength as a director—the Ensemble. As an educator, I painstakingly search for scripts that can shine a spotlight on the strengths we have within the ensemble. The playwright's idea of the “Flunkie” Ensemble affords me the chance to showcase the dancing strengths of Iowa Central and the vocal components of the show allow me to do the same with our strong vocal program. I also want to borrow a page from Jimmy Fallon...and play with some Beatles songs performed by a group of college students playing elementary school instruments. (I am hoping audiences will appreciate the creative nods...and not hold us to Fallon's award-winning Roots performances!) So—as usual, I am trying to play to the strengths of our entire Performing Arts Department.

I am equally excited to welcome our new Coordinator of Technical Theatre—a former student, Katie Wallin, who joins our team as a colleague. She will continue to work with our resident technical “Dream Team” with John Kastendieck, Jr. as set designer and master carpenter, Andy Anderson as our sound engineer, and Ashley Garst of Party Productions—and also former student—as our lighting designer. I would stack our stage pictures and amazing sets up against even the most professional of theatre performances throughout the state. I am honored to work with such committed professionals.

So—even though this is a play and not a musical which usually fills the Iowa Central Decker Auditorium, I can guarantee a very satisfying evening of theatre—with amazing music in the mix—so check out our production in October. This is a show which is not only appropriate for all age groups...but one which should be seen by all age groups.

The play opens with a 9:00 a.m. matinee on October 9 which will be presented for area schools and Friendship Haven at a discounted cost. Our run officially begins, then, on October 10 at 7:00 p.m. in Decker Auditorium and continues through the 11th and 12th. Tickets can be ordered online through the Iowa Central bookstore at iowacentral.edu/bookstore or at the Iowa Central Bookstore on our campus or by calling 515-574-1081. They may be purchased at the door as well. The show's cost stays reasonable as a thank you to our community for its support—with ticket prices only $6 for adults and $3 for students. Iowa Central faculty, staff and students continue to attend for free.

I guarantee that we will make you smile...reflect...and remember.

Program Spotlight on Process Technology

by Shadd Scharf, Process Technology Coordinator

What is Process Technology? Have you ever wondered who makes ethanol, anhydrous ammonia, feed stuffs, or bio diesel? Process Technicians make this happen. They keep these multi-million dollar companies running safely, efficiently, and ensure environmentally friendly processes. Technicians take raw materials like corn, soybeans, natural gas, and even air and process them into products we use or consume in some way all the time, by utilizing complex technology.

I am Shadd Scharf, the new Program Coordinator and Instructor for Process Technology at Iowa Central Community College, and I am looking to give industry what it so badly wants and needs, which is a fresh and highly skilled workforce. This knowledge-hungry industry boom that is taking place right here in Webster County and several locations across the mid-west, wants, needs, and supports this program, which is available right here in Fort Dodge. With the partnerships that have been built, we strive to obtain additional types of process jobs which our graduates will be qualified to do.

Iowa Central is offering a wide variety of hands-on and useful training with an Associate of Applied Science Degree in Process Technology. Students will learn a wide variety of cooling tower systems, how they work, their chemistry, and the need for such a system in a process plant. We will also cover various boiler systems from low pressure to high pressure, fire tube boilers versus water tube boilers, and how to operate and monitor the boiler systems in a safe manner. We will also look at why plants monitor the items they do while boilers are in operation, as well as the downstream affects. With all of the ethanol around the midwest, we will cover fermentation, distillation and evaporation, how these play their role in making ethanol, and why we need these steps in the process. We plan to make some fun and interesting lab projects to see how this works and understand why things happen, as we do projects and see systems in operation on field trips to various facilities. We will also be covering bi-products of the ethanol process and the different ways to make them useful to the world. We plan to get a training device for DCS (Distributed Control System) to greatly increase operators' trouble shooting capabilities, rather than discuss and train in a mock setting. In addition to all the processes, we will also learn how to process, strip, or modify discharge streams, making them environmentally safe, whether it be in liquid, solid, or gas form. With the strong emphasis on state controlled parameters, and the repercussions for violations in the environmental world because of the negative downstream effects to our environment, this portion of the degree is extremely vital.

The program is made up of a wide variety of technology and troubleshooting techniques taught in a hands-on manner, with classroom labs and involving some of the local companies who are willing to allow us into their process plants. This will give students the real life exposure to make a well-rounded process technician. Knowing the different systems that intertwine all of the different processes, and making graduates a very hot commodity to the starving work force are the key ingredients in supplying our quickly expanding industry. Graduates will know how things like cooling, steam, and distillation systems all work and how they can and will give them a job where no two days are the same and make for a challenging, rewarding, and good paying job.

The development of the Process Technology Program came from a request from Koch Fertilizer. Iowa Central invited companies that may have similar needs to discuss the specific skills that are needed. "I believe that we have put together a program that will give individuals great opportunities to build a career with great companies right here within this region," said Neale Adams, Dean of Business and Industrial Technology. With the growing demand for individuals with these skills, and with Cargill and CJ BioAmerica establishing facilities in Webster County, it is even more important that we work to create a skilled workforce.

Industry in this region has greatly supported the establishment of this program with insight into their process, the type of equipment they use, and the specific skills that are needed to work in the environment. It was also established that to create a well-rounded individual, they need to have math and communication skills on top of a technical aptitude. Course work surrounding these areas is also embedded into the curriculum.

The Process Technology Program is open to any individual who wants to develop a well-paying career opportunity, one who is open to a challenge, and is willing to work hard. Individuals can still enroll in the program for the fall semester, and scholarships are available. For more information, contact Shadd Scharf at 515-574-1917 or email scharf@iowacentral.edu.

Iowa Central Creates Career Services to help alumni get jobs.

Iowa Central has launched a career service to assist students and alumni to gain knowledge about job opportunities. The center also assists in job interviewing skills, and resume writing.

The activity level is growing in and around Fort Dodge. As an Iowa Central Alum, consider coming home when looking for that great job, comfortable community, and fun place to live. Fort Dodge, the regional hub, is one of Iowa's fastest growing economies with a population of more than 26,000, serves as the education, retail, dining, recreation and entertainment center for more than 126,000 people that call North Central Iowa home. With over $600,000,000 in new capital investment over the past two years, Fort Dodge and Webster County is growing and features many Fortune 500 and global companies with local facilities and good paying jobs such as: Cargill, CJ BioAmerica, Nestle-Purina, Koch Nitrogen, Boehringer-Ingelheim, Valero Energy, and POET Biorefining. Other companies who are leaders in their field include Silgan Containers, C&S Products, Misty Harbor Boats, and four gypsum companies. Many of these companies are in search for skilled individuals like yourself, to help them continue to expand.

Find yourself in that fun place to live and check out some of the new amenities added to Fort Dodge's roster such as the Midwest's largest Off-Highway Vehicle Park, "Gypsum City," 30 mplus miles of recreational trails, Rosedale Rapids – a state of the art aquatic center, For Frenzy – Iowa's newest entertainment destination (opening November, 2013), three golf courses and a disc golf park, Rogers Sports Complex and numerous community events and festivals seasonally throughout the year.

Those looking for a deeper involvement in the community can find a wonderful experience through churches, organizations, clubs and volunteer opportunities. For additional information on Fort Dodge, and North Central Iowa, check out greaterfortdodge.com.

Head Coach Kevin Twait and the Triton football program is anxious to erase a sub-par 2012 campaign. A year ago they finished 6-5 and lost in the Salt City Bowl to Hutchinson (KS) 41-21. It ended a six game bowl win streak which was the longest in the country! "We are anxious to put that bitter taste of a tough year behind us and move on to a more productive 2013 season. It all starts with work ethic and consistency in practice - you get what you deserve." said Coach Twait. "Our pre-season has gone well, the attitude is tremendous, and our guys are preparing for a banner 2013 year!

Offensively the Tritons return many guys that started or were in the two-deep varsity roster. That experience will assist us in their quest to improve the offensive production. Defensively, nearly the entire two-deep roster was lost to graduation. "The goal is to improve from day to day during this four month journey. We will strive to make noticeable progress from week to week. We are confident that we will be "in the hunt" when it comes time to determine Conference Championships and Bowl Invitations," states Coach Twait.

The Tritons open up regular season play against Iowa Western on Aug. 31 in Council Bluffs at 6:00 p.m.. Dakota County comes to Fort Dodge on September 7th for the Triton's home opener at Dodger Stadium.

Triton Athletics Fall Previews

Cross Country

2013 marks Dee Brown's 10th season as head coach of the men's and women's cross country team, and it could be one of the most eventful yet. The Tritons will host the 2013 NJCAA national tournament here in Fort Dodge at Lakeside Golf Course and will look to make a statement.

"It is very exciting, we have only run at our home course once previously," said Coach Brown. "I am quietly optimistic, however, it all depends on how quickly we can adjust to the differences collegiate cross country presents."

Brown is hoping returning runners will be able to maintain high standards and place in the Top-5 at nationals. Men's pair Frankline Tonui and Tahir Chakisso as well as women's duo Hannah Maina and Aden Alemu will stand the best chance of placing.

Iowa Central will also host the Region XI Meet before the national tournament here in Fort Dodge. The Region XI Meet takes place Oct. 26 and the National Meet is Nov. 9.

Men's Soccer

Iowa Central men's soccer program will look to go a few steps further this season and win their first regional title since 2009. Head Coach Ben Taylor (3rd season) was content with his first recruiting class but thinks there is more to come from his returning sophomores and talented incoming freshman class.

Taylor said, "We have to be honest and say we lost a lot of talent last season. However, so did the rest of our conference rivals. I believe we compete in one of the toughest conferences in the country."

Key to Triton hopes will be returning sophomores Abelson Estimabel, Juan Espinal, Conor McKenna and Fernando Cortes as well as incoming freshman Mitch Conning, Dylan Kelly, Jesus Castellon, Hugo Navarro and Matheus Macedo.

They will look to defend their Minnesota Kick-Off Classic title Aug. 30 against Bismark State College in Rosemount, Minn. The Triton's will then make their ICCAC bow against Indian Hills at home with the game being played at Harlan Rogers Sports Complex in Fort Dodge.

Men's and Women's Golf

Head men's and women's golf coach David Barwin hopes to continue the trend of sending golfers to nationals. Cody Brandau returns to lead a young men's team after a trip to NJCAA Nationals last season. The sophomore-laden women's team looks to earn its second trip to the NJCAA National Tournament in three seasons.

Iowa Central opens the fall season in Boone at the DMACC Invite on Sept. 5 and follows with a two-day tournament in Kansas City, Kan., on Sept. 15-16.

Women's Soccer

Iowa Central women's soccer program will look to build off of an impressive debut season with second-year head coach Christiane Lessa. The Tritons will be looking to improve on last year's impressive run that saw them finish with a 15-3 overall record and 6-2 league mark.

"We believe the blend of freshman and sophomores will continue to help us make history here at Iowa Central," states Lessa.

The Tritons open up regular season play against Illinois Central Aug. 24 in Peoria, Ill., at 5:00 p.m. Indian Hills will provide Iowa Central their first ICCAC test in Fort Dodge at the Harlan Rogers Soccer Complex on Sept. 11 at 4:00 p.m.

Men's and Women's Rodeo

Each year, the Iowa Central rodeo program takes another step forward, this year head coach Bridget Lambright hopes it's a milestone step. The men's team qualified for the College National Finals Rodeo for the first time last year, this year they hope to make it back and bring the women's team with. The men are the two-time defending Great Plains Reserve Champions.

The season begins on Sept. 13-14 in River Falls, Wis., at the UW-River Falls Rodeo. The Tritons will host the Triton Rodeo on Oct. 3-4 at the Webster County Fairgrounds.

Volleyball

Iowa Central volleyball's second-year head coach, Fredrick Wagner will be looking to build off an impressive debut season at Iowa Central. The Tritons compiled a 34-10 record and made the national tournament for the second consecutive season, earning the program's best finish of seventh nationally.

"We are a young team that will have to work hard, our freshman were represented well at the Iowa State High School Volleyball Tournament. I think we will know a lot more about this group by the middle of September," said Wagner.

The Tritons will open up Friday, Aug. 23, against Kansas City-Kansas in the SCC Jam-boree in Burlington. Iowa Central's first ICCAC match-up will be Wednesday, Sept. 4, against Ellsworth in Iowa Falls.

Giving Back To Our Foundation

One of the goals at Iowa Central is to offer a quality education at an affordable price. One way that we help is through Iowa Central Foundation scholarships. The Foundation offers scholarships to help offset the cost of college and reduce the need for student loans.

Last year the office of institutional effectiveness did a study to see how effective scholarships are. The statistics backed up what we thought was true; students receiving Foundation scholarships on average had a 1% higher GPA, graduated sooner, and the retention rate was 10% higher.

The Foundation needs your help to provide scholarship support to every student in need. There are two ways to establish a named scholarship fund at Iowa Central.

- Donors can give an annual gift of $500 or more for a three year commitment.
- Donors can establish a named endowed scholarship with a minimum investment of $25,000.00. Each endowment will support Iowa Central students or programs in perpetuity.

You can also support scholarships by contributing any dollar amount to the Foundation Academic Endowed Scholarship fund which benefits students with a GPA of 3.25 or above or the Foundation's Academic Endowed Technology Scholarship Fund which helps students entering the vocational technical programs with a GPA of 2.50-3.24.

If you have ever received a scholarship, you know how important it is. Is this your time to pay it forward so that other students have the opportunity to work less and devote more time to studies? Everyone's gifts, large and small have a significant impact for many.

Triton Club

The "Triton Club" (Iowa Central's Athletic Booster Club) exists to assist our athletic programs with numerous budgeting issues. Dollars raised through our Triton Club go to offset the cost of operating a first class athletic program. Scholarships, equipment, and travel costs are all areas of concern for each individual sports program. Over one hundred faculty and staff, as well as numerous alumni and many businesses, are Triton Club contributors. Iowa Central has a proud tradition of excellence in the athletic arena. Each year our squads are competitive at the national level! Your past, present, and future support of Iowa Central Athletics is vital as we continue to operate our programs at the highest level. Triton Fine Arts Club

Iowa Central has a proud tradition of excellence in the fine arts areas. Your past, present, and future support of Iowa Central Fine Arts is vital as we continue to operate our programs at the highest level. Thank you to the following donors who are currently supporting the Triton Fine Arts Club!

We owe our success of the fine arts department to our dedicated faculty and staff who expect the best and to the talented young adults who are involved within our fine arts department. Please consider supporting 'Triton Fine Arts' through your gifts. It's an investment that will give back in the form of quality shows for your continued enjoyment.
